Job Description:

The Fidelity Brokerage Technology Margin development group is looking for Principal Software Engineer with advanced Java skills who wants to help us expand and modernize our suite of applications and be a leader on the team. This person will be working in a complex Margin processing domain (Option Pairing, Portfolio Margin, Limited Margin, Buying Power calculations, etc.) using a multi-platform application. We are currently building new functionality, modernizing legacy mainframe applications, and migrating to the cloud. Our applications are an integral part of the trading day and overnight batch, so you'll get to experience the ups and downs of the stock market and be right in the middle of events like the Gamestop short squeeze.
